Art

The artwork appears to be a doodle, characterized by a freehand drawing style, typically not intended as a finished work. Doodles are often composed of abstract patterns and figures, sometimes incorporating text or recognizable objects. This particular doodle features a variety of elements, including figures, shapes, and words like "I'm broke," "depend," "degree," "no," and "illusion." The style is reminiscent of contemporary art, which encompasses art produced in the present day and often embraces diverse and unconventional forms of expression.
